Industrial Sewing Program at Robron Centre

Never heard of it? Well, neither have most people in the district. It is a partnership between SD 72 and Vertical Madness, an industrial sewing company. The program provides an opportunity for students to design, template, and then manufacture their own projects from scratch. The sewing facility has over 50 sewing machines capable of sewing any fabric. The only limitation is the students' own imaginations. Over the last few years, students from grade 4 and up have manufactured everything from dog beds to backpacks, wallets to handbags. The program is staffed by a combination of experienced staff members and work experience students who are looking at going into the industrial sewing industry. The program also provides a work experience program where students can come and learn the trade of industrial sewing. During the work experience program students are taught the use of a variety of industrial sewing machines with the ultimate goal of working with Vertical Madness staff to design and manufacture projects for customers.

If you would like more information or would like to bring your class for a visit, contact Program Instructor Rab MacNeill 250-202-1391.

Literacy After Hours with Christine & Audra

Christine and I appreciate the great response to the Elementary Literacy Survey. Thank you!

We are so excited about SD 72 literacy and working with educators, that the information provided has energized our focus: Guided reading books are being ordered, and Pro D plans are underway to meet specific teacher learning needs and school interests, goals and needs.

TOP TEACHER LITERACY GOALS

The Literacy Survey responses indicate that aspects of reading (1), aspects of writing (2), intervention (3), and providing accommodations for memory, language and attention (4) have been identified as the most desired learning opportunities.

MENTORSHIP

Starting in 2021, SD72 (in conjunction with the CRDTA) will begin a teacher mentorship program. January through June will act as a trial phase, with full enrollment for September 2021. The trial phase will involve a small group of mentors and mentees. This year is about developing and assessing program structures on how to support and serve new teachers.

For more information and to get involved visit the Teacher Mentorship page.

A new year sometimes brings with it new intentions, goals, and aspirations. What goals do educators in SD 72 have for their learning in 2021? If there are any goals the Indigenous Education Department can support, be sure to reach out. Check out the blog for upcoming learning opportunities.

February 12, 2021 is SD 72's Indigenous Day of Learning. Information will be sent out very soon about how to sign up and who will be presenting.

There are a few book clubs occurring in the district in the coming months - including 21 Things you May not Know about the Indian Act (Joseph, 2018) and Braiding Sweetgrass (Kimmerer, 2015). If you have a book in mind that you are looking to explore and dig deeper into, we love to read and facilitate conversations!

INDIGENOUS RESOURCES

By: Gillian Kirke - Indigenous Education Department
gillian.kirke@sd72.bc.ca

Why Indigenous Literatures Matter

By: Daniel Heath Justice

"This provocative volume challenges readers to critically consider and rethink their assumptions about Indigenous literature, history, and politics while never forgetting the emotional connections of our shared humanity and the power of story to effect personal and social change."

Listen here on CBC

Democratic Dialogue in Education (Boler, 2004)

"Drawing from disciplines of philosophy, political theory, critical race theory, sociology, and feminist and post-structural studies, the essays in Democratic Dialogue in Education examine issues arising from the conceptualizing of hate speech, freedom of expression, speech codes and political correctness, and voice and agency. What are the limits of speech in classrooms, and how are classrooms distinct from other kinds of public space? How do we understand silence as well as speech within the field of cultural differences at play in educational spaces? Questions of social justice, equity, racial identities and sexual differences are central to the pedagogical philosophies and practices addressed by these diverse scholars."

ADOLESCENT LITERACY

By: Rachel Friederich
rachel.friederich@sd72.bc.ca

Research on student achievement has consistently shown that most things we do in the school and classroom work. But the difference between what a student can achieve when we teach using these means and what a student can achieve without them is negligible.

- So, what really works?
- And how do we know?

Join us, Rachel, Adolescent Literacy Coordinator, and Erin, Mentorship & Professional Development Coordinator, to explore these questions.

EVALUATING OUR IMPACT

ASSESSMENT TO INFORM PRACTICE

- #1 What does it mean to Evaluate our Impact?
- #2 The Continuous Learning Cycle
- #3 Formative Assessment: Process
- #4 What does student work reveal about what you need to learn next?

"ASSESSMENT IS TODAY'S MEANS OF MODIFYING TOMORROW'S INSTRUCTION." - CAROL ANN TOMLINSON -

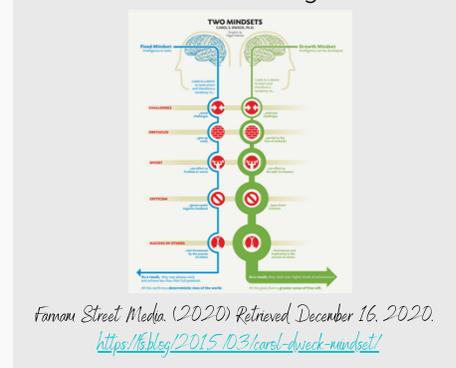

Each of the four workshops will be grounded in research and will provide a takeaway for your tool kit. For more information contact rachel.friederich@sd72.bc.ca or erin.pickering@sd72.bc.ca. Please sign up for this workshop series in Employee Connect, under the Workshops tab. Dates will be announced soon - please stay tuned.

We all make mistakes. In this moment in time, though, we realize that to F.A.I.L. is to make a First Attempt In Learning. Growth mindset is key, as Carol Dweck's research has shown us. To teach students the importance of mindset and how to increase growth mindset, have them write about their favourite mistake after listening to and analyzing Sheryl Crow's song, "My Favourite Mistake." Questions to ask about the song and answer in their own writing might be:

- What does the mistake mean today?
- What lasting impressions or lessons does the writer take from the experience?

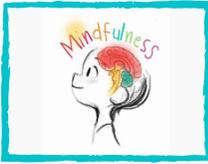

In both the lyrics and their first written draft, students can highlight in yellow where the author recalls the incident and in green where they reflect on what it means today.

(from KellyGallagher's, Write Like This, 2011, p.29)

Digital Wellness

We are in the process of creating modules promoting Digital Wellness in the elementary and middle grades. Our goal is to have these completed by spring break and will include five 1-hour, activity-filled sessions.

The focus will be on the healthy use of technology and how to decrease stress and anxiety due to the use of technology. This will include four main components:

- Well Being
- Citizenship
- Etiquette
- Safety

The goal is to develop modules for grades K-9 by the end of this school year.
